CONVENTION DEFEATS EFFORT TO PURGE ROLL

Taft Forces Win Second Test Vote.

FIGHT OVER CONTESTS

Credentials Committee Gets Delegate Disputes.

HADLEY WILDLY CHEERED

Great Demonstration Sweeps Convention For T. R. Man.

Chicago, June 20.—Chairman Root called the third day's session of the Republican national convention to order this afternoon. The first business is the report of the credentials committee on contested seats.

The forces of President Taft won their second victory when they laid on the table, by a vote of 564 to 519, an amendment to a motion of Governor Herbert S. Hadley, of Missouri, aimed to deprive contested delegates from casting their ballots on the contested cases.

The vote showed a gain of six delegates for the Taft forces over the vote cast on the initial test of the convention, which also was won by the followers of the president by 558 to 502.

Following the second test, the Hadley motion to "purge" the convention of ninety-two of the contested delegates was referred to the credentials committee.

Governor Hadley offered his motion to substitute Roosevelt delegates for the ninety-two Taft men who are contested by the colonel's leaders immediately on the call of order.

James Watson, of Indiana, the floor leader of the Taft forces, objected and Governor Deneen, of Illinois, a Roosevelt follower, offered the amendment that no contested delegate be allowed to vote.

The motion to table, by Mr. Watson, came next, and then the vote by states showing the Taft victory and gain over Tuesday. Preceding the vote there were three hours' debate and almost an hour of demonstration.

The cheering took the form of an ovation to Governor Hadley and added his name to the list of dark horse candidates for the nomination for the presidency. The demonstration was started by W. H. Coleman, a Roosevelt delegate from western Pennsylvania who had leaped upon the platform and yelled through a megaphone:

"Three cheers for Hadley, the next president of the United States."

Then followed the demonstration, led by the Roosevelt delegates, who were aided by a few of the Taft men.

Before the official announcement of the tabling of the Deneen amendment was made upon a point of order of Governor Hadley, Chairman Root ruled that while a contested delegate could not vote upon his own right to a seat he could vote on other identical cases. Otherwise, Chairman Root said, a majority could control the convention by bringing a sufficient number of contests.

The ruling was greeted with applause by the Taft forces and the convention adjourned.

Talk of Compromise Candidate.

Notwithstanding personal utterances on the part of Colonel Roosevelt, William Flinn and others in Colonel Roosevelt's camp, and notwithstanding the remarks to the contrary of a number of President Taft's chieftains, there are well grounded reports, based on substantial evidences of effort to bring about the nomination of a compromise or harmony candidate for president.

A number of President Taft's friends are to continue their efforts to nominate him on the first ballot. But according to the best figures the president has no more than a majority of ten over the necessary 540 votes to nominate him on the first ballot. In other words, the president's friends claim 550 votes. Others in the president's camp claim 562 votes. Colonel Roosevelt has but 470 votes. Senator LaFollette has 36, the votes of Wisconsin and North Dakota, and Senator Cummins has 10 from the state of Iowa.

Director McKinley, of the Taft bureau, issued a statement, saying among other things:

"President Taft will be renominated by the Republican national convention now in session in Chicago. Theodore Roosevelt has been eliminated as a candidate before the convention. The two test votes forced by his leader have demonstrated that he cannot be nominated."

The debate was intensely bitter, frequently interrupted by hoots and jeers for the speakers and marked by plain intimations from the Roosevelt men that they would win their point or bolt.

Governor Hadley, the Roosevelt floor leader and father of the motion to exclude the ninety-two contested delegates, was the first speaker.

Taft delegates, was the first speaker and he emphasized the Roosevelt position by declaring that the contested men must not be allowed to vote of their right to retain their seats.

He was well received, but the first speaker against the motion, W. T. Dovel, of Washington, was greeted with jeers. Then H. J. Allen, of Kansas, and later George L. Record, of New Jersey, made it evident that a bolt was a strong possibility.

Record declared that if a "packed" convention nominated the candidate for president the "conscience of the American people will revolt." Allen was challenged to tell whether he would support the nominee and declared he would, if he was not named by "fraud."

Former Senator Hemenway caused confusion by declaring for "Penrod above Flinn every time." The Pennsylvania delegation hurled epithets at the speaker and Flinn was called to order for his angry demonstration.

The charge of "liar" from one Indiana delegates to another caused a clash, but the delegates were kept from joining issue with their fists.

A wave of hoots and an angry demonstration greeted an attack by Devine, of Colorado, on Governor Hadley and Cecil Lyon, and Senator Root, the chairman, had to threaten the election of a Texas delegates to obtain a semblance of order.

Just before the convention assembled a sensation was caused by the announcement that Governor Hadley and Governor Deneen, Roosevelt leaders, had declared that in no circumstances would they countenance a bolt.

More ominous than the parliamentary battle, however, were the plans credited to Colonel Roosevelt and his more radical lieutenants, including "Bill" Flinn, of Pittsburgh, Pa. It was understood that the colonel might swoop down upon the convention, refuse to recognize Root as the legal, elected chairman, insist that the contested delegates be barred, and, failing in this, that there would be a rush to seize the Coliseum, a physical encounter such as the nation's political history never has recorded, a "double" convention or a bolt with the colonel a certain nominee for the president in one form or another.

Demonstration For Hadley.

The demonstration for Hadley lasted forty minutes. It was a demonstration made by the Roosevelt following to be sure, but it was the Missouri who evoked it and was significant in showing that some of the colonel's followers would like to see him nominated.

The cheers began when Governor Hadley came forward to reply to a statement made by Representative Watson, the Taft floor leader. It was quite unexpected apparently, but seeing its spontaneity, the Roosevelt people at once seized upon it for a demonstration for the colonel, which had been just itching to make it the hope of stampeding certain delegates to the Roosevelt side before a vote was taken on the question debated throughout the afternoon as to the right of the men seated by the national committee on the contested cases to vote on the selection of the committee on credentials and one that committee should report.

The Hadley cheer was thereupon turned into a Roosevelt cheer, but the demonstration that followed helped anybody, that persons was Governor Hadley.

Counter Demonstrations.

The Taft men at last began to get up and to cheer for Watson. The result was that soon after all the delegations were on their feet, the two factions cheering the two men who were standing together on the platform.

The Taft men worked hard for while on their counter demonstration, and there was nothing but noises of all sorts, hoots, whistles, catcalls and cheers. Pretty soon a parade was begun up the aisle by the New Jersey delegation, headed by their standard Mr. Watson remained standing.

After a few minutes, however, the Roosevelt men fell in behind the New Jersey paraders and the parade of the standards moved more rapidly. North Carolina, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Nebraska, Ohio, Minnesota, California and Kansas fell in behind New Jersey. The Pennsylvania and South Dakota delegates also joined in.

The counter demonstration of the Taft men went right along with the Roosevelt parade, but they stopped cheering after a while and contented themselves with simply watching the parade of the Roosevelt men and laughing at them.

After the demonstration had proceeded for about twenty minutes the Roosevelt men began the regularly repeated cry of "We want Teddy; we want Teddy; we want Teddy!" This cry was started by the Massachusetts delegation, taken up by Flinn's Pennsylvania delegates, and then W. H. Coleman, of McKeesport, Pa., one of the Flinn lieutenants, jumped upon the platform and shouted: "Three cheers for Governor Hadley, the next president of the United States." There was a renewal of the noise.

Then he seized a megaphone previously used by one of the reading secretaries of the convention and shouted three times through it "Hadley for president," and then Mr. Coleman was chased off the platform by one of the sergeants-at-arms.

MANEUVER CAMPS MAY BE ABANDONED

Veto of the Army Bill Affects Mt. Gretna.

Washington, June 20.—President Taft's veto of the army appropriation bill may prevent this year's maneuver camps of the regular army and the national guard.

In most of the states the camps were ordered for the middle of July. Preparations have been made at Aniston, Ala., for the encampment of the guards of Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina, North Carolina and Florida, beginning July 5. Arrangements have been made for the encampment of the guards of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania at Mt. Gretna, Pa., beginning July 5; for the guards of Louisiana and the south western states at Alexander on July 5 and for the northwestern states, including Colorado, Washington and Idaho, on July 21.

The bill vetoed by the president contained an appropriation of $1,390,000 to pay in part the expenses of the camps. An effort has been begun to induce the president to forward to the congress a special message urging that the appropriation for the encampments be authorized so that it may not be necessary to postpone them.

EVELYN THAW IN COURT

Testifies Against Husband in Hearing on His Mental Condition.

White Plains, N. Y., June 20.—That Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is going to keep up her fight against the release of her husband, Harry K. Thaw, from the state asylum for insane criminals at Matteawan, was shown when William T. Jerome, representing the attorney general of the state of New York, called her as a witness against him.

She was called to prove that she had traveled with Thaw in Europe previous to her marriage and his actions at that time, and she was even asked to describe what happened at the Madison Square Roof Garden on the night that Thaw killed Stanford White.

While going to the witness chair she walked within ten feet of Thaw but there was no sign of recognition between them, not even a nod.

Mrs. Mary Copley Thaw, the mother of the man who is having his present sanity passed upon, did not even glance at the witness before or after she was placed under oath.

Evelyn's testimony was a repetition of the testimony given by her on previous trials. During all her testimony the witness spoke of White's murder as "Thaw," and never prefixed it with "Mr."

Young Mrs. Thaw was asked during the recess about reports that there was a baby in her house of which she was said to be the mother. She laughed as she answered "I don't care to talk about that now."

MAY PROBE BRIDE CHARGES

Littleton Has Resolution Calling on House to Investigate Republicans.

Washington, June 20.—Representative Martin W. Littleton, Democrat, of New York, has prepared a resolution calling for a congressional investigation of the charges of bribery at the Republican national convention.

It is said he will submit it to the house on his return from New York in a day or two.

Sell Bogus Convention Tickets.

Chicago, June 20.—While tickets to the convention were quoted at $14 each, with the demand greater than the supply, hundreds of counterfeit tickets were sold to unsophisticated visitors at $5 apiece. The swindle did a thriving business within a short distance of the Coliseum doors.

Policeman Killed in Riot

Cleveland, O., June 20.—Edward Parker, a policeman, was killed, and William Garlich, an express wagon driver, was badly wounded during a demonstration of 100 striking truck workers employed on the Pennsylvania railroad at St. Clair avenue and East Twenty-sixth street here.

Why They Remained.
"I held the audience spellbound for more than an hour," boasted the campaign speaker.

"Pshaw," replied a member of the local committee, "it wasn't your talking that made the people stay. We had advertised that Billy Smagley would play a cornet solo after you got through, but for some reason he failed to show up."

Historic Blackguards

By Albert Payson Terhune

William Cunningham, Jailor of New York "Revolution Martyrs"

"FOLK of fashion do complain right grievously that the groanings and lamentable cries of the rebel prisoners (both here in New York and in the prison ship on the CAPT. WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM (Breckenlen shore) disturb their slumbers. And they pray that Master Cunningham, our provost marshal, will devise some means to keep the poor wretches quiet of nights."

So runs an old letter written in New York during the darkest days of the American Revolution. The British had captured New York and Philadelphia. To both cities—but chiefly to New York—they brought thousands of rebel soldiers, captured in battle, and many non-combatants who had risked freedom and life to help the cause of liberty by money, gifts or by patriotic speeches.

These unlucky captives were not treated like prisoners of war. They were housed and fed—or, rather, starved—in a way the law nowadays would not permit for cattle or swine. And the man in charge of them was a blackguard whose own countrymen loathed him, William Cunningham.

Cunningham was the son of a British dragoon and was born in the regimental barracks at Dublin. In 1774 he came to America and settled in New York, where he made a living for some time by "breaking" colts and by giving riding lessons. When the Revolution broke out, in 1775, he became involved in a political row with some local patriots and was forced to flee to Boston, there to seek the protection of the British army.

His noisy loyalty to King George III, got him into trouble there and attracted the notice of Thomas Gage, the English general. Gage appointed him provost marshal to the royal army. His chance for "revenge" had come.

Cunningham was sent back to New York and was put in charge of the Revolutionary prisoners there and in Philadelphia. There were several hundred prisoners in New York where the patriot captives were lodged. One was the city hall, another the famous old "Sugar House," another the "new gaol" (the old hall of records in City Hall park), torn down only a few years ago, and—worst of all—the "prison ship Jersey," moored on the Brooklyn shore. Churches were also turned into jails.

In the prison ship the captives were herded by hundreds in dark, foul pens, destitute of pure air and sunlight. They were given such food as a dog might well scorn, and in such tiny quantities as would not suffice to keep a dog alive. The water they drank was filthy. No medical care or chance for cleanliness or exercise was granted them. Prison fever and other maladies scourged their ranks. They died like so many flies. To such fearful condition were they reduced that the lowest city outcasts were touched by pity and secretly sent them food.

The fate of the captives in the new gaol, or hall of records, was little better. Here is an extract from Pinard's account of their sufferings:

"So closely were they packed together that when they lay down at night to rest, on the hard oak planks, and they wished to turn, it was all together, by word of command—'right'—'left'—being so wedged as to form almost a solid mass of human bodies."

All war is cruel. But such torture as this was inexcusable. And (though the British government might perhaps have bettered matters had they chosen) to the lion's share of the blame was Cunningham's. Here is a portion of his own confession, made in 1791, just before his own execution:

"I shudder to think of the murders I have been accessory to, both with and without orders from government, especially while in New York, during which time there were more than two thousand prisoners starved by stopping their rations, (which I sold). There were also 275 American prisoners executed. A guard was detached to forbid people to look out from their doors or windows on pain of death, after which the prisoners were conducted, gagged, at midnight, just behind the upper barracks, hung without trial and then buried."

Cunningham went back to England after the war and took to riotous living. Being short of money to squander on dissipation, he forged a draft. For this crime he was tried, condemned, and, on August 10, 1791, was hanged.

He is said to have been responsible for the shameful death of nearly 2,500 American patriots. Nor could mere hatred for the colonists account for this wholesale slaughter, since he dishonestly sold for his own profit the prisoners allotted to them.

Fixing it.

"Oh, dear, do you have to go to war? Maybe the 'enemy' will kill you," said a tearful sweetheart at parting.

"I'll fix that, love; I'll be the enemy."

Hospitality.

An officer who had been exchanged from Libby was jokingly asked if he met with much hospitality at Richmond.

"Oh, yes," he replied; "I was in the hospital most of the time."

TAFT CHAIRMAN OF CREDENTIALS

President's Friends Organize the Committee.

WILL KEAR CONTESTS

John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia, Being Boomed by Taft Men For Vice President, Reaches Convention.

Chicago, June 20.—In a test of strength at the organization of the credentials committee the Taft forces elected Thomas H. Devine chairman over the Roosevelt candidate, W. T. Lauder, of North Dakota, by a vote of 26 to 18, four members being absent or not voting.

Massachusetts had no representative of the committee because of the deadlock in the state delegation. The Taft forces expected the vote on the majority of the contest cases to be 33 to 19, basing their prediction on the attitude of the respective delegations on the convention roll calls of the last two days.

Before the national committee there were contests involving the seats of 254 delegates, of which 234 were awarded to President Taft and twenty to Colonel Roosevelt.

Ormsby McHarg stated, when the credentials committee met that the contests which would be taken from the national committee on up to the convention committee on credentials would involve seventy-two delegates. This means that the Roosevelt forces have abandoned contests for the seats of 162 delegates which the national committee awarded to President Taft, apparently because the contests were based upon altogether too flimsy pretexts.

WANAMAKER IN CHICAGO

Reaches Convention In Time to Vote on Unseating of Taft Delegates.

Chicago, June 20.—John Wanamaker's special train dashed into the Union station after one of the fastest runs ever made over the Pennsylvania railroad between New York and Chicago.

He jumped into a taxicab and was driven straight to the Coliseum, where he arrived breathless just in time to vote on the question of unseating the Taft delegates.

Mr. Wanamaker is a Taft delegate from Philadelphia. He left his baggage with the chauffeur and then had a struggle to gain entrance. He finally got word to Senator Penrose, who hurried out with the credentials and Mr. Wanamaker had ended the journey which began at Cherbourg, France.

The first thing he encountered on the floor was his own boom for vice president. Senator Penrose and the old guard are behind it. He beat Edmond B. Osborne, the Roosevelt delegate, by a vote of 100 to 80.

A detachment of forty marines, under command of Captain Alexander S. Williams, U. S. M. C., arrived on a special train from Guantanamo to reinforce the garrison at the Firmeza mines and to protect the property of the Juragua iron company.

As a result of the latest amnesty proclamation issued by General Moncada, commander-in-chief of the government forces, about 200 insurgents came in and surrendered to the military authorities.

AMERICAN PLANT BURNED

Cuban Insurgents Destroy Buildings and Marines Are Rushed to Scene.

Santiago, Cuba, June 20.—The building of the Ponpupe Manganese company, an American concern, situated near La Maya, about seven miles from Santiago, were burned by Cuban insurgents.

A detachment of forty marines, under command of Captain Alexander S. Williams, U. S. M. C., arrived on a special train from Guantanamo to reinforce the garrison at the Firmeza mines and to protect the property of the Juragua iron company.

As a result of the latest amnesty proclamation issued by General Moncada, commander-in-chief of the government forces, about 200 insurgents came in and surrendered to the military authorities.

Airman Fatally Injured.

Nassau Boulevard, L. I., June 20.—After crossing two continents and working for over a month to be a recognized airman, Hugh Sargent, of New Zealand, was seriously, perhaps fatally, hurt at the field here. Thirty feet in the air he tried to commence the turn which begins the spiral climb characteristic of the Wright machine. For an instant the machine seemed to stand still. Then it dropped like a plummet. Sargent was thrown ten feet, landing on his face. He was picked up unconscious.

Two French Army Aviators Killed at Douai.

Douai, France, June 20.—Captain Dubois and Lieutenant Albert Peigman, both officers in the French army and trained aviators, were killed when the military flying ground collided with a terrible force in mid-air.

The two officers, who were close friends, were unable to perceive each other while flying through the early morning haze when they started practicing soon after daybreak. In making a curve their machines collided with an awful impact, the wire stays and canvas wings became interlocked and the two biplanes crashed to the ground.

Lieutenant Peigman was taken from among the wreckage dead. Captain Dubois died within an hour.

PARKER LIKELY TO BE CHAIRMAN

Democrats Favor Him For Temporary Off. cer.

BUT BRYAN IS A FACTOR

Clark Men Claim 500 Votes On First Ballot—Wilson Leaders Also Optimistic.

Baltimore, June 20.—Only the opposition of William J. Bryan, it was believed here, could prevent the naming of Judge Alon B. Parker, of New York, for temporary chairman of the Democratic national convention by the committee on arrangements of the national committee at its meeting today.

Judge Parker seems to be acceptable to most of the members of the committee and the candidates for nomination. It was regarded as certain that Senator O'Gorman was out of the running, because he had been put forward by the Wilson men as their candidate thus arousing the bitter opposition of the Clark leaders.

Senator-elect Ollie James was still a possibility, and United States Senator Shively, of Indiana, was also being mentioned. Judge Parker, however, seemed to be regarded as the most logical man for the place. Friends of Bryan on the national committee are confident that the Nebraska would not have any objection to Judge Parker, but no one was able to speak with authority.

It was reported that Senator O'Gorman would be named chairman of the resolutions committee, which would frame the platform, and in this respect it was pointed out that the senator might find in Bryan a rival for the honor. It is said that Mr. Bryan is desirous of heading the resolutions committee to have the writing of the Democratic platform, and if he is really a candidate for the place there will surely be a showdown between the Nebraska's friends and the anti-Bryan forces.

Probable votes in the convention were being counted by the managers of the various candidates, and the Clark men were confident that their candidate would enter the convention with at least 500. Conservative estimates gave the speaker 405, with Wilson second.

Lieutenant Governor Nichols, of Ohio, directing head of the Harmon campaign, predicts the nomination of Governor Harmon and the renomination of President Taft. He said that the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt would be a menace to constitutional government and a national calamity.

Mr. Nichols thinks that the statist clans of other Democratic candidates will be rudely shocked when the strength of Governor Harmon is disclosed, and that the paramount issue will be the reduction of the tariff.

SAY WILSON IS STRONGEST

Six New Jersey Congressmen Sure of His Nomination.

Trenton, N. J., June 20.—That Governor Wilson is the strongest candidate that can be named for the presidency and will be given the nomination at Baltimore next week and will be elected president next November is the opinion expressed by the Democratic congressmen of New Jersey.

Six of the seven congressmen came to Trenton from Washington and conferred with Governor Wilson on the party outlook. Fresh from mingling at Washington with Democrats who favor the various candidates and after having canvassed the situation with the advance guard at Baltimore, the congressmen told the governor that he would win the place as head of the presidential ticket.

As they outlined the situation, the real fight will be between Governor Wilson and Speaker Champ Clark. The visitors told the governor that he was undoubtedly the strongest candidate all things considered, and that this would be shown on the first ballot.

This, they claimed, would lead to a break in the Clark ranks in favor of the New Jersey governor, and before many ballots were taken Governor Wilson would win the necessary two-thirds vote to give him the nomination. The congressmen were all enthusiastic as to the governor's prospects.

All PAIGE Cars Built on Same Chassis

Down near the end of our advertisements you'll nearly always see the line "Seven stylish bodies all built on the one Paige chassis." That may not strike you as meaning very much. But it does!

It means that we build just one type of Paige car. It means that our engineering department concentrates all its attention on one chassis, one power plant. It means increased purchasing power—it means that for our 1912 output of 3500 cars we buy the best materials at prices as low as any manufacturer can buy them. It means further reduction in cost of production—by which Paige purchasers profit—because all parts are identical and uniform. It means that we are building in our own motor plant as many motors of one model, as any larger manufacturer is building of any one of his several models. It means finer precision in the finish of every part.

The Paige policy is the policy of concentration, — specialization in motor car building. Paige purchasers can have the Paige in almost any style, but the construction of the car proper—the frame, the motor, the transmission, the axles, all of the essentials—is just the same. And for its size and power—104 inch wheel base and full 25 horse power—no better car has ever been built. We don't believe any other car as good can be bought for Paige prices, $975 and $1000.

Paige cars—built for long and satisfactory service—come ready for the road fully equipped.

Regular equipment includes top, windshield, 5 black enamel lamps, generator, horn, tools, jack, tire repair outfit. Quick mountable rims (set of 5), on touring car models, including tire irons, $15. Same equipment on roadsters, $12.50. (Self-Starter and Prest-O-Lite tank installed at the factory for $25 if desired).

Fifty Years Ago

The titanic struggle between the North and South was being waged. The semi-centennial of this greatest of all modern wars makes everything pertaining to it of peculiar interest at the present time, and a stirring Civil War story is particularly appropriate now. It is for that reason we have arranged to print:

My Lady of the North

By RANDALL PARRISH

Author of "Bob Hampton of Placer," "Keith of the Border," etc.

This is the greatest of all the great historical stories Mr. Parrish has given to American readers. It is a swift, intense, adventurous romance, with some mystery, as much action as is possible to crowd into one story, plenty of realism of what may be termed the romantic variety, and a glow which will enlist your sympathies as well as your attention.

On as black a night as any daring soldier could ask, a cavalry captain rode out from the Army of Northern Virginia to carry certain dispatches from General Lee through the Union Lines. The officer is Captain Philip Wayne, and a gallant Virginian in every sense of the word. He is at once plunged from one dangerous adventure into another, and the dashing style in which he describes them will keep you enthusiastic and fairly breathless in your effort to keep up.

You Will Not Want to Miss a Single Line of the Story and We Strongly Advise You to Watch for the Opening Chapter

FOR GOOD FORM IN DRESS

Something in Which a Woman Must Be Her Own Judge in Most Particulars.

It is hardly possible to put the whole matter of good form in dress into a series of stated rules, for it frequently happens that over-dress is as much an error of judgment as dress of too informal character. Therefore, the sense of exact proportion, perfect fitness for the time, place and occasion is the important element of good taste in dress. There are instances in the life of every man and woman, I venture to say, when the question of just what to wear was a more or less perplexing one. The exact hour; the object; the character of the entertainment; the manner of life and ideas of one's host or hostess; the locality—all these enter into the matter of dress—and while in the great majority of cases there can be no doubt whatever, in others the question must be decided entirely by circumstances and common sense. But it should always be remembered in cases where there is the least doubt that full dress is the safe rule for an evening affair.—New York Press.

FOR SUMMER MORNING

MISTAKE, BUT WORKED WELL

Unintentionally Friendly Letter to Bullet-Proof Debtor Brought Quick Results From Him.

A lawyer who had drifted out of the regular line into a collection practice dictated so many dunning letters every day that he had his stenographer sign them and would himself read over the carbon copies the following day if he thought it necessary. He had another bad habit, which was that as it came to the close of a day and he had become weary of nagging people he would grow facetious and instead of dictating the names of the debtor properly would vary the monotony by saying "Dearest Skin" or "Darling Mr. Smith," knowing that his stenographer, having the correspondence before her, would fill in the proper name.

It chanced that she, like most good stenographers, decided to get married, and she brought her sister into the office to succeed her. The first full day of dictation that the attorney put in after the sister's advent chanced to be one of his humorous ones, and he started a letter to a bullet-proof debtor named Samuel Smith "Dear Sammy," and then proceeded to tell Sammy his opinion of him. The next morning, on looking over the carbon copies, he was horrified to find the new stenographer had typed that letter exactly as it was dictated and sent it out in the mail the night before.

All that day the attorney expected Mr. Samuel Smith to show up with fire in his eye and a pistol in his hand. He shivered when the office door opened and he left for home very early in the afternoon. The next morning, however, he received a letter from "Sammy," which started off "Dear Billy" (the lawyer's given name being William), and which went on to say, "If you had addressed me in such friendly style before you would have had the money sooner," and inclosed was "Sammy's" check for the whole account.

The new method had brought gratifying results, but the attorney did not dare to adopt it as a regular practice; on the contrary, his dictation since has been notable for its exactitude.

Nettle as Substitute for Cotton.

The search for a cotton substitute has been going on in Europe for a long time, and many experiments have been made with the common nettle, which has been a promising plant on account of the strength of its fiber and its ready growth wild under the most discouraging conditions, with a large yield per acre. The great difficulty has been in separating the fiber from the woody stem. In a method of treatment that has been worked out in the last two or three years, the dried nettle stems are boiled about half an hour in dilute soda lye, and the loosened fibers are then separated in a machine with revolving brushes. The material is then subjected to a number of alternate bollings in dilute lye and thorough washings, both under high pressure. The product is a mass of yellowish fibers, free from gum, that can be bleached, combed, and spun into lustrous white yarn. This is claimed to have the smoothness and softness of flax, with a strength even greater than that of hemp. The yarn has been made into brilliant damask, and can be used alone or with other threads—for upholstery, ribbons, and a variety of fabrics.

Wrong, as Usual.

Judge—You have testified that you saw the man's automobile run over the old gentleman?
Witness—Yes, sir, the auto was 41-144, N. J. I took the number before the car got away.
"You say you are a telephone girl?"
"Yes, sir."
"Prisoner discharged."

SALVAGE SHOT FROM THE SEA

Seamen on English Coast Earn Money by Selling Old Projectiles to the Admiralty.

Shot picking is the "art" of retrieving shot and shell from the bottom of the sea. In order to practice this profession nowadays a man must be in possession of a boat, plenty of courage and a license.

Target practice is carried on almost every day at Portsmouth, England, and the admiralty are willing to pay a good price for shells which are recovered from sand banks and shallow water.

Shot pickers go out to sea in boats, watch the firing intently while it is in progress, and then, as soon as the last shot has settled in the water, disperse in various directions in order to discover the shells.

These are located by means of a long line weighted with lead, which has a small buoy fixed at one end. This end is thrown overboard, and the boat is rowed slowly in a semicircle. The weighted line drags over the sand beneath the water and catches against any shell that is projecting above the sand. A thin, firm pole is then lowered, so that it makes a clean line from the shot to the side of the boat, and, while this is held in place by one man, a pick is thrust down by another to draw the projecting shot from the sand beneath the water.

NO DIFFERENCE IN THE MUSIC.

"What's the difference between a sacred concert and an ordinary concert?"
"One is played on Sunday and the other isn't, that's all."

More Light.

Fresh air enthusiasts are familiar enough to most of us, but we hear less of enthusiasm for light. Darkened parlors, darkened bedrooms, darkened sickrooms, are too common. Sir B. W. Richardson, the eminent London scientist and physician, declared that when the professors of healing enter a sickroom their first words in most cases ought to be Goethe's dying exclamation, "More light! More light!" The light of the sun is God's own mercuric killer, germicide, disinfectant, prophylactic, sickness healer. There is no physician, no chemical antidote, no compounded prescription to be compared with sunlight. Without it nature could not perform her functions. Man, beast, bird, insect would fall victims to the deadly gases that would prevail. The horrid mists and deadly gases are dispersed and decomposed by the action of light. Let it in, everywhere! Let the light in more and more abundantly. Faded carpets are not as pitiful as faded cheeks. Spotted cushions are trivial compared with spotted health. Darkened rooms are too suggestive of darkened lives.—The Christian Herald.
